Patents

If you have a current or potential patent, you understand that it is an asset that needs protection. Patents (exclusive rights to stop others from making, using, importing, and selling an invention) have been around for ages, but in this age of technology, are becoming more valuable and the need for protection continues to be great.

An active and growing part of Sheehan Phinney's Intellectual Property and Technology Practice Group is the Patents Group.

Our Patent services include, but are not limited to:

- Domestic and international utility/design patent prosecution
- Opinions concerning the infringement/non-infringement of patents
- Opinions concerning the validity/invalidity of patents
- Opinions concerning design of products and processes to avoid potential infringement assertions
- Opinions concerning the patentability of inventions
- Patent licensing
- Patent litigation
